The bread which we break, is it not the communion of the body of Christ? C. Brings us near to God -- Eph 2:13 But now in Christ Jesus ye who sometimes were far off are made nigh by the blood of Christ. Teaching that Christ is risen from the dead and is alive, the Catholic Church holds, in addition to the doctrine of transubstantiation, that when the bread is changed into his body, not only his body is present, but Christ as a whole is present ("the body and blood, together with the soul and divinity") The same holds when the wine is ... This is My Body... This is My Blood. Question: Though the Catholic doctrine of transubstantiation cannot be proved by the Bible alone, neither can you show that the bread and wine are merely signs of the body and blood of Christ. A literal understanding of Jesus' words, "This is my body... this is my blood" agrees well with the Catholic doctrine of Christ's presence in the Eucharist.
