Narrative writing tells a story. A story has certain elements that are not found in other types of writing.

3. Elements of a Story
Exposition: The setting and characters

4. Elements of a Story
Rising Action: Events that occur in the story that lead to the climax.

Teaching narrative writing to 1st grade students is a bit of a balancing act, as it's up to you to explain something as potentially complex as a story in simple, beginner-friendly terms. These tips will help you maintain that balance and keep your students engaged as you and your class begin your journey into the world of narrative writing. Read prose and poetry of appropriate complexity for grade 1.

WRITING STANDARDS Text Types and Purposes 1. Write opinion pieces introducing the topic, state an opinion, supply a reason for the opinion, and provide a sense of closure.
